The first public presentation of the Lotus Evora took place at the British International Motor Show in London on 22 July 2008. The Evora was the first new development from Lotus after the Elise in 1996. The 3.5-litre V6 engine comes from Toyota and is installed in numerous models there. Following various further developments, the Evora model range was expanded in 2019 to include the GT410 SPORT, which now reached a top speed of 298 km/h with 416 hp. Between 2009 and 2021, a total of just 244 Lotus Evoras were newly registered in Germany, making the model an absolutely sought-after exotic car.

The vehicle:

This GT410 SPORT shines not least because of its extraordinary colour scheme. As if the Lotus Evora, and in particular the GT410 SPORT model edition, were not already rare enough, this car is probably even more special.

Delivered by Sportivo Leipzig in March 2019, the GT410 SPORT is currently with its second owner. The Evora has been serviced by the well-known Lotus authorised partner workshops, has no maintenance backlog and is therefore ready for immediate use. The last service was carried out in May 2025 at a mileage of 29,500 km, meaning that the vehicle is also perfectly run-in. The MOT will of course be renewed before handover to the new owner.

Viewings and test drives are of course possible at any time by prior appointment. The vehicle is being sold privately by us on behalf of a customer. Subject to errors and prior sale.
