Last version of the legendary Exige!

December 2021 marked the end of an era at sports car manufacturer Lotus. The Exige, which was originally created for racing and has never lost its DNA over the years, was produced for over 20 years. The Exige models played a key role in reviving the Lotus brand, once so glorious in Formula 1, in a world that had almost forgotten it.

At the beginning of 2021, it was announced that Lotus would discontinue the Exige at the end of the year. As a result, three model variants were produced as so-called "Final Editions". The 390 Final Edition, the 420 Final Edition and the Cup 430 Final Edition. The Final Editions are characterised by new colours, a modified interior and more power.

The Exige offered here is part of the Sport 420 model series and is the final expansion stage of the Sport 410 series model, which has been on the market since 2018. With a whopping 426 hp, the Final Edition models have almost 10 hp more than their predecessors – and all this with very little weight. The super sports car sprints from 0 to 100 km/h in 3.4 seconds and reaches a top speed of 290 km/h. None of the Final Editions is faster!

Various "Final Editions" lettering adorns the vehicle, making it something very special. This Exige was produced in Hethel on 7 December 2021, making it one of the very last Final Editions. In May 2022, the Exige was registered for the first time to its only owner to date.

With just 420 kilometres on the clock, the vehicle is in absolutely mint and immaculate collector's condition. The front has been wrapped with Lotus paint protection film and the entire vehicle is also ceramic-sealed.
